

CLAIMS

1. A molded article for dental use having a predetermined form so as to be suitable for use in an oral cavity, characterized in that the molded article is formed of a copolymer polyester resin made up of polyethylene terephthalate constitutional units and poly-1, 4-dimethylene cyclohexane terephthalate constitutional units.

2. The molded article for dental use according to Claim 1, characterized in that said molded article for dental use has a form selected from the group consisting of a temporary crown, a denture base, an artificial tooth and an orthodontic device.